At COSMIC we have turned the bathroom into something more than just a physical space: a stage for enjoying the senses. A world full of suggestions... We invite you to see it at CASAPASARELA where you will be able to enjoy our latest novelties in washbasins: BATH LIFE and COMPACT, and the presentation of the furniture collection BLOCK.

The Interview: Ricard Ferrer

"I love simple pleasures; they provide a refuge for complicated people."

Oscar Wilde

Ricard Ferrer presents the DROP work surface complements collection for Cosmic, reinterpreting the every day use of objects through formal exploration, playing with the transparency of materials.

Ricard Ferrer

Q: What is the starting point for DROP collection?

A: We wanted to reproduce our own feelings about the bath atmosphere... Drop is born from the image of a water drop which gets adapted and flows over the surfaces. That is why we have developed some opaque interior pieces and a transparent cover where inner elements that make up the pieces seem to be floating. Their shapes emphasize the idea of fluency. We started from each object's stereotype shape to make them easily recognizable. These objects are even rounder as if they had been eroded by water.

Q: Have materials been decisive for the result of their shape?

A: Our first goal was to suggest a high standard product, comparable to those of the most technically developed sectors. Secondly, we wanted to reach a best relation between the inner and the outer piece through transparency.

To reach these goals we decided to use methacrylate because it offers an excellent result between endurance and transparency and a perfect union between all components by means of ultrasound welding.

Q: Please use three adjectives to describe this collection...

A: Liquid, magical, smart.

COSMIC presents COMPACT: its most comprehensive and functional collections of washbasins

COSMIC, creators of the bathroom as the setting for enjoying beautiful and functional objects conceptually conceived to provide pleasure and wellbeing, presents COMPACT, a new collection of washbasins designed by the COSMIC STUDIO and where functionality is combined with contemporary design.

After the success of the Waterproof collection, COSMIC endeavours to intensify cleanliness and simplicity by creating a new bathroom line made in BathStone, aluminium hydroxide with synthetic resin, a highly resistant material that is easy to maintain and allows optimum preservation of parts. It is designed to combine simple forms that include additional functions such as towel holders or storage space in a single component. It is this linking of different elements that gives it its name COMPACT.

The collection is made up of an extensive range of models and sizes. washbasins with single or double basins, with drawers, or integrated towel holders, in smaller sizes, more conventional sizes for the home or extra large models for luxury projects with more space. And in addition, it is complemented by three shower tray models; making this collection a generous and comprehensive one for all kinds of users and requirements.

With COMPACT, COSMIC concludes its search for the avant-garde to meet functionality.
